LAW IN ORDER INTRODUCES VENIO FPRâ„¢ EARLY CASE ASSESSMENT SOFTWARE TO AUSTRALIA

New ECA software aims to reduce the cost & time of eDiscovery

LAW IN ORDER INTRODUCES VENIO FPR EARLY CASE ASSESSMENT SOFTWARE TO AUSTRALIASydney, NSW: November 16th - Law In Order, a leader in eDiscovery and litigation support, announces the launch of Venio FPR, early case assessment software to the Australian market. This early data or early case assessment software is the latest edition to Law In Orders extensive suite of eDiscovery services.

Combining Venio FPR with Law In Orders experienced consultants offers clients an easy-to-use assessment tool to comprehensively analyse very large datasets and quickly identify the key documents prior to full-scale review. The system provides versatile searching, allowing users the maximum variations of each term or phrase, as well as email analytics that display the communication and connections between all custodians and the relevancy of each custodian.

Additional benefits to clients include, standard and customisable tagging, email domain analysis and over 35 standard reports on a project or custodian levelall securely hosted by Law In Order.

Lowering costs and improving the process and quality of eDiscovery has always been Law In Orders objective - an objective that is shared by corporate legal departments and law firms. said Paul Gooderick, Director of Law In Order. This early data assessment tool gives legal teams a quick and low cost way to more effective analysis of data. Gaining a comprehensive picture of that initial data set leads to better strategies and planning earlier in the eDiscovery process.

Chris Jurkiewicz, co-founder of Venio Systems, likewise heralded his companys new partner by saying, Law In Order is Australias premier ligation service provider, and we are excited to be partnered with them. Their reputation and level of service raises our industrys standards to new heights and leaves all others in their wake. We look forward working with the best our industry has to offer and Law In Order is clearly the best.

Case Study:

Job Description: Novice E-Discovery users required to assess 40GB Lotus Notes Files Time Frame: 1 week

Our client with no E-Discovery experience had to assess 40 GB worth of Lotus Notes e-mail files. They wanted a quick, low cost option to access the information on hand in order to evaluate the scope of the issues and determine their approach. We ran the files through Venio which gave lawyers access to the data within hours.

As the client needed to ascertain how connected the e-mails were in relation to the matter they wanted a clear picture of the parties involved, our Solutions Consultants ran keyword searches and showed the social network map that visually shows who this person sent emails to which proved to be a great tool to the legal team.

The use of Venio allowed for the legal team to completed scoping in 2 days and the Discovery completed within 7 days. The job was delivered earlier than expected and under budget.

About Venio Systems

Venio Systems, based in Fairfax, Virginia, is a team of innovators and developers with 20 years of combined experience in providing eDiscovery/eDisclosure solutions. Venio Systems addressed the industrys lack of a true first-pass review and early case assessment application by creating Venio FPR to provide law firms, corporations and government entities the ability to gain a comprehensive picture of their data set at the front-end; thereby, saving precious time and money on the back-end. Venio Systems remains on the forefront of innovation to provide solutions anyone can use. For more information, visit www.veniosystems.com.

About Law In Order

Law In Order provides a complete solution to the e-discovery process. From initial consulting, early case assessment, Relativity hosting to processing and production of data, we aim to streamline the discovery process for law firms, corporate legal departments and government agencies.

For more information or to book your free Demo, please contact our Business Development Managers at sales@lawinorder.com.au.

For any media queries, please contact Tisha Kelemen National Sales & Marketing Manager at 02 9210 1630

Contacts

Tisha Kelemen
02 9210 1630
mailto: tisha.kelemen@lawinorder.com.au