

A sound decision: Pioneer picks RightNow for eService solutions

Leading audio and video entertainment equipment provider reaps the benefits of online customer service

Leading audio/video entertainment equipment provider, Pioneer UK (www.pioneer.co.uk), is breaking new ground yet again - with an innovative online eService solution from RightNow Technologies. RightNow eService Centre, which includes a proprietary, self-learning knowledge base of frequently asked questions (FAQs), is set to radically change Pioneer's customer services. Scoped and implemented in just 10 days, it has already reduced the number of emails from Pioneer's customers by 65 percent, from around 1,700 to 600, in 30 days. RightNow's self-learning technology builds content based on customer enquiries and interactions. Because the most useful and popular questions rise to the top, answers are quick and simple to find. Questions that cannot be immediately answered can be emailed - and these are automatically routed to the most appropriate person. This means common requests to Pioneer, such as those asking for spare parts and replacements for lost manuals, are dealt with online, leaving Pioneer's four full-time customer service staff free to dedicate time to more complex problems. In addition to the list of FAQs, RightNow powers an interactive search function. It has also automated Pioneer's brochure request system, which previously spanned six Web sites, and now stores the brochures as PDFs in a single location in the knowledge base for customers to download when required. "We selected the RightNow package over all other options because its scalable tier system makes it extremely expandable. It has already relieved pressure from call centre staff and improved our customer satisfaction. In the mid-term, we plan to extend the system's existing tiers to our entire dealer network," Pioneer's customer relations manager, Jim Langley said. RightNow's vice president of marketing and business development, Sean Forbes says, "With its introduction of the world's first separate stereo system, Pioneer has a world-wide reputation for spearheading new technologies. RightNow is proud to add Pioneer to its growing portfolio of companies which recognise efficient customer service as a key component of success." About Pioneer Corporation Pioneer is a world leader in audio/video entertainment equipment.
