

Executive Coaching Pays Off For Five TEC Member Companies

Five members of The Executive Connection (TEC) made it onto the list of top 100 Fast Starters, as determined by Business Review Weekly (BRW) magazine.

The five TEC member-companies featured in the BRW list of top 100 fast starters include:

#14 Apricus Australia (Chris Taylor - TEC 14); #15 E3 Style (Richard Chen - TEC 44); #29 Protegic (Matthew Curtain - TECR 211); #54 Plum Communication (Rachael Edginton - TECR 211); and #69 Appliance Tagging Services (Ainslie Allen - TECR 204). The peer-mentoring provided by their TEC groups, together with regular expert speakers, and one-on-one personal and business coaching provided by their TEC Chairs have clearly paid dividends for these business leaders.

To qualify as a BRW Fast Starter, businesses need to be trading since July 2005, with at least two years of fiscal revenue, along with turnover in excess of $500,000 in 08-09. They must have more than one main customer, have the majority of revenue not coming from Government grants or other start-up funding, not be a subsidiary of a multinational, and, if not a public company, have their revenue figures verified by an external auditor/accountant.

About The Executive Connection (TEC) The Executive Connection (TEC) helps CEOs from Australia's small and medium businesses to become better leaders, make better decisions and drive better results for their organisations.

TEC membership provides unparalleled access to new ideas and fresh thinking through monthly peer think-tanks, one-to-one business coaching and speaker presentations from the top industry experts.
