

Federal Minister opens new facilities for AWA Limited

AWA, one of Australia's leaders in the information technology, telecommunications and electronics (ICT) industries, is at the forefront of growth in outsourced services to these important industries.

Senator the Hon Helen Coonan, Minister for Communications, Information Technology and the Arts, Deputy Leader of the Government in the Senate, formally opened AWA's new corporate headquarters in Sydney on August 18, 2006.

The AWA name has been an icon to generations of Australians. In the fast-changing ICT sector, it has been a constant, reliable and well-known supplier of support and services, said Senator Coonan.

AWA's customers include 3M, Apple Computers, Cisco Systems, Department of Defence, Dimension Data, Flight Centre, Fuji Xerox, G-Tech, Hewlett Packard, Humax, Kaz, Kodak, Panasonic, Sun Microsystems and Telstra.

These companies are well-respected leaders in their respective industries we are proud to partner with them, said John Dougall, Executive Chairman, AWA Limited.

AWA specialises in the restoration and deployment of technology. The company's strengths lie in managing large-scale rollouts and providing expert field service, project management, logistics support, asset tracking, parts and spares management, product upgrades and technical training.

The company traces its origins back to 1909 and during the last 30 years has focused on supplying communications, technology, logistical services and support to large organisations, ICT vendors, resellers, distributors and outsourcers through its full-time staff of 350 and its network of more than 300 service agents in metropolitan, regional and rural Australia.

We have worked with many of our clients for more than 10 years. They tell us that our long-term relationships are based upon the fact that the AWA team has always provided reliable and trustworthy service.

The future is bright, and we plan that AWA will continue to grow and expand our service offerings to the Australian ICT services industry into the future, added Dougall.
