

Melbourne Web Company Announces Product and Business Expansion

Free web-hosting at the forefront of helping businesses profit from the web

MELBOURNE, FEBRUARY 08, 2012: Australian web hosting and e-commerce provider, Ingenyes <www.ingenyes.com.au> , has today announced expansions to its product range, reseller program and global services to supply a rapidly growing customer base.

The company will now offer a range of new website building features and web-hosting packages along with value-add solutions designed to simplify e-commerce for online businesses.

Ingenyes Founder and CEO Anoosh Manzoori said the latest additions to the Ingenyes product range have been designed to supply online businesses and web service providers with a more cost effective and streamlined way to grow their business online.

Ingenyes solutions have been built to help people profit from the web during a time of immense change in the world of e-commerce. From a basic free web-hosting solution for a single website, to an enterprise level reseller program, Ingenyes is in a position to service any level of the market with low cost solutions that come with 24 hour support, he said.

The Ingenyes product range now includes a customisable e-commerce solution <<http://www.ingenyes.com/e-commerce/>> delivered ready out of the box from $AUD12.00 per month, a website builder <<http://www.ingenyes.com/create-a-website/>> solution from $AUD8.00 per month, and reseller program <<http://www.ingenyes.com/reseller/>> designed from web designers from $AUD39.00 per month.

Were very excited to now offer a flexible e-commerce solution with flat annual fee regardless of how many products, disk space or bandwidth a customers website is running with, Manzoori added.

Ingenyes also offers domain name registration services with free Privacy Registration, Registry Lock and DNS Management.

According to Manzoori, delivering online commerce services to a wide variety of businesses and website styles has been a key driver in the formation of the solutions announced today.

The Internet is a business tool that should be accessible to everyone regardless of geography, industry or technological know-how. Technology has evolved to stage where setting up and growing an online business should be a simple, cost-effective and flexible process, Manzoori said.

Since launching in October 2011, the companys customer base has grown to include over 1,000 customers in more than 20 markets around the world.
