

The distinction between warranties and guarantees is commonly overlooked. From 1 January 2012, it will be more important than ever for manufacturers, retailers and other suppliers of goods and services to understand the distinction. With the introduction of stringent laws relating to warranties against defects, failure to make this distinction could have significant adverse consequences on businesses.

Continue reading...

Contacts

Pip Hunt
1800552018
mailto: publications@harwoodandrews.com.au