When Ripple started five years ago as one therapist on Tamborine Mountain, I never in my most optimistic dreams thought we would be expanding nationally across so many regions, said Ms Shaw.

It has been fuelled by the increased demand by our clients for quality, professional in home massage and beauty services. Whilst there are a many small independent therapists in Australia, clients are wanting a higher level of customer service, coupled with more interesting treatments similar to what you would find in a day spa.

"With the introduction of a number of massage styles exclusive to us here in Australia like the Chocolate, Sea Shell and Russian massages, Ripple has achieved a reputation for excellence as a unique, mobile day spa experience, she continued.

"We also strongly believe that an in home treatment should be affordable and sensational value for money." she commented.
