

As the sun sets earlier and the temperature plummets, winter can make your home feel dark, dreary and uninviting. Justine Wilson, Sydney Property Styling Expert and Director of Vault Interiors, has shared her top 8 bedroom styling hacks to help your home feel warmer and extra cosy this winter – on-trend of course! Justine Wilson says, “Having a visually warm environment will enrich all the senses. Creating a cosy atmosphere in your bedroom in winter is as easy as updating your colour scheme and adding new accessories, textures and fabrics. It’s all about creating warmth and a relaxing, comfortable space where you can snuggle up under the blankets with a good book and a cup of tea.” Justine’s top 8 bedroom styling hacks: It’s all about the layers – Instead of turning up the heater, look to warm up your bedroom by layering textures and fabrics that will help trap in heat. Adding a thick wool or faux fur throw to your bed will instantly create an inviting space. Update your colour scheme – Deep colours including plum, magenta and mustard echo the falling leaves and natural winter palette. Switch up your bedroom colour scheme by adding cushions, accessories, vessels and candles with these rich colours and tones. Add sweet scents – Candles not only look great but also provide much needed warmth and light. Select a large tray and add a few different sized candles with winter scents such as vanilla and caramel to set the ultimate romantic mood. Rug up – If you have wooden floorboards in your bedroom, instantly create warmth by adding a simple plush shag or sisal rug to keep your toes warm and comfortable. Add some life – Adding a vase of fresh flowers, ferns or succulents on the bedside table or on top of your dresser will breathe fresh life into your bedroom. Fresh plants will also help filtrate the air. Light it up – With less natural light in the winter months, incorporating floor and table lights will help brighten up your bedroom. Try swapping out cool bulbs for warmer ones to create a more relaxed and comfortable environment. Mirror image – Large-scale mirrors are a great décor item to impact light levels and make your bedroom feel bigger. A floor length standing mirror or large wall mirror hung vertically can instantly brighten up the space and bring warmth and light to your bedroom. Curtains – Thick floor-length curtains create instant insulation and trap in the heat to keep your bedroom looking and feeling warm and homely all day long.
