The WSABE Awards celebrate acumen and success in business in Sydney's Greater West. The awards which celebrate business leadership and performance across the region covers multiple business categories that contribute to the economy of Parramatta and the Greater Western region.

Held at the picturesque Rosehill Gardens, and presented by Stephen Sim of Northside Radio, the event will be attended by many distinguished guests including the Hon. Gladys Berejiklian, Member of Parliament and Premier of New South Wales.

Judges include a literal 'who's-who' in the world of business including Mr. David Amaneddine, CEO of AAA City Removalists - Sydney's leading removalist firm and preferred moving partner of the Sydney Opera House.

Besides being a judge at the 2018 WSABE Small Business Awards, Mr. Amaneddine is an accomplished businessman, Mind Body Medicine kinesiologist, well-known leader and speaker in Sydney's Greater West community.

Mr Amaneddine's call is for business leaders to be 'HUMAN' above all else.

Mr Amaneddine has also commissioned psychologists and human behaviour experts, Dr Nicholai Popov, and Professor Michael Jones to understand the 'emotional health' of his workforce so he may optimise it for his people and company.

"When the emotional health of people is optimised, it reduces accidents on the road and in the workplace, improves focus, reduces distraction and creates a happy staff, clients, and customers."

AAA City Removalist's initiatives in this area are widely regarded as a first in the moving industry! You can watch Mr Amaneddine speak at his company's
