

AGR Technology makes transition to improved infrastructure

AGR Technology a independent technology business based in regional Victoria is proud to announce they have made the transition to improved server infrastructure.

Armed with more processing power and server capacity AGR Technology hopes to continue serving both it's clients and end-users and provide a higher standard of user experience.

The local business was originally founded as a YouTube channel (agrtech1) by it's founder Alessio to provide a range of technical tutorials for Windows, Android and more.

Since it's early beginning the business has evolved to encompass a tech blog along with a small collection of free online tools and software utilities for download and now offers business solutions aswell such as Web Design, Hosting, Domains, Software Development and Online Marketing services like SEO, Google Ad's and more.

Whether your a small or large enterprise AGR Technology and it's partners can help with it's experiences in the software, I.T and online marketing space.

For more updates follow the business on Facebook or via LinkedIn for more.
