We saw many ancestry photos today

Ancestry - We saw many old photos today Today was a day where we saw many old ancestry photos. Clients came in with their precious old photos to have them turned into forever keepsakes. They had previously seen us at the market and decided they wanted to old ancestry photos to be photo engraved into jewelry to create their forever keepsake.

We saw lots of photos of Nonnas, pappa's, it was truly amazing. Many people had called me to ensure we were at the Queen Victoria Market to give us their precious ancestry photos. They then took time to view our jewelry range to select the perfect piece to suit the photo and its purpose.

Many were gifts for loved ones, so they spoke to other family members before ordering to ensure it was the correct piece. Many where of a similar vintage and we even had older photos. I think one today originated back to the early 1930's. It was her mothers grand father. Truly amazing day for us at Memory Keepsakes.
