

Andatech Adds the Ionmax ION450 Air Purifier to its Premium Products

New premium home air purifier by Andatech features five level filtration system capable of removing 99 per cent of bacteria and odours from indoor air.

Melbourne, Australia – May 25, 2015 – Director of Andatech, Mr. Irwandy Tan, today announced the release of the newest addition to the Andatech Ionmax family, unveiling the superior air purification system the Ionmax ION450 Premium Home Air Purifier.

“With allergies in Australia on the rise, it’s only logical to start by looking at the air quality in our homes,” said Tan.

“We spend 90 per cent or more of our time indoors and indoor pollution may be unnoticeable, but it can really aggravate some allergic diseases such as allergic rhinitis and asthma. The Ionmax ION450 air purifier’s comprehensive five-level filtration removes allergens from indoor air to help alleviate allergic symptoms among sufferers.”

This state-of-the-art system is comprised of five levels of filtration to achieve maximum efficiency. Combined with a superior design that matches any décor, the purpose built filtration system targets 99 per cent of particles, bacteria and mould spores, while neutralising unpleasant and toxic odours, making it one of the most powerful air filtration systems available.

The Ionmax ION450 air purifier comes equipped with the power to purify areas small and large, ideal for not just the home but also for clinics, classrooms, and offices. Featuring multiple fan speeds, near silent operation, automatic timer and a family-friendly touch panel, the ION450 air purifier makes the perfect addition to any home.
