

Andatech has been named the 2018 National Champion Specialised Small Business at the Australian Small Business Champion Awards ceremony held in Sydney in April. Andatech is a 100 per cent Australian owned company that designs, supplies, supports and services safety products including high quality alcohol and drug testing equipment. More than 1100 guests were in attendance at the presentation and gala dinner held by The Australian Small Business Champion Awards, which is the only national recognition program for Australian small businesses. The program recognises outstanding Australian small businesses and encourages high standards of excellence in small business practice. "The Australian Small Business Champion Awards is a way to recognise small business people whose efforts contribute to the prosperity and vitality of communities across Australia," said Steve Loe, founder of the awards. "As a small business owner, I know the vision and dedication to excellence required to succeed. These traits have been displayed in abundance by all of our 2018 Small Business Champions." Andatech received an award statuette and certificate and gains national recognition as an industry leader in winning the award. Irwandy Tan, managing director of Andatech, said the award is recognition that employees go above and beyond in delivering services to our clients and customers. "Our route to market is quite diverse as we have B2B clients, sell direct to personal customers and also have third party suppliers," Mr Tan said. "Our philosophy is to do whatever we can to make the sales and service process as streamlined as possible for anyone who buys our products. "Innovation is also at the core of what we deliver. Our unique breathalyser and drug testing products are the very best and meet the highest standards. We are continually upgrading and enhancing our range with the latest technologies to meet community and regulatory expectations." Andatech is a multi-award winner having won the Whitehorse Business Group 2017 Small Business Award; was a finalist (2017) and winner (2016) in the Optus My Business Awards; and won the Business Technology Award and the Business Excellence Award at the 2016 Australian Business Awards. www.andatech.com.au ends About Andatech: Andatech is a 100% Australian owned company that designs, supplies, supports and services safety products including high quality alcohol and drug testing equipment.
