

Australian insurance industry power players revealed

Insurance Business magazine reveals the movers and shakers of the industry

Insurance Business has just released the third annual Hot List, which profiles the power players who have made waves in the insurance industry over the past year.

Most of the industry figures featured on this year's Hot List are included because of the prominent organisations they lead, whose movements are a constant source of interest to the channel. Some have been at the centre of major activities in recent times while others are expected to be central to significant events yet to come.

"It's never easy compiling this list, given the abundance of remarkable ongoing work undertaken across the channel," said Tim Garratt, editor of Insurance Business.

"But all these professionals are most deserving, with their admirable leadership and impressive innovation that continue to drive many corners of the industry."
