AuraPortal, Clear Software and One Identity Latest Partners to Join Blue Prism's Ecosystem

Sydney, Australia – August 30, 2019 — New intelligent automation capabilities get added to Blue Prism's Digital Exchange (DX) every week. AuraPortal, Clear Software and One Identity are the latest group of Blue Prism affiliate Technology Alliance Program (TAP) partners to make their capabilities accessible to all via the company's marketplace. Blue Prism's DX is an intelligent automation marketplace comprising of hundreds of applications accessible to customers, resellers and technology partners, available for quick download and extending what's possible with Robotic Process Automation (RPA). "Anyone interested in understanding the powerful convergence between AI, cloud and RPA capabilities needs to look at our DX to see what's possible," says Bruce Mazza, VP of the Technology Alliances Program (TAP) for Blue Prism. "We amassed hundreds of applications in just a few months, that provide simple drag and drop access to best-in-class intelligent automation capabilities. Through these technology partnerships we deliver more options and greater flexibility for scaling automation projects that create optimal business led outcomes for our customers." Companies participating in Blue Prism's Technology Alliance Program at an affiliate level have an opportunity to expand market awareness on the benefits of RPA by delivering their own complementary products to Blue Prism's DX. Partners can easily customise their solutions, accelerate product development and minimise time to market for their products, using the market's most advanced RPA software. Highlights from this new round of affiliate Technology Alliance Partners includes:
