

Case management software company appoints IT industry veteran as chairman

Phil McCrea joins Flow Connect

Leading case management software company, FlowConnect, announced today that Dr Philip McCrea had been appointed Chairman of the Board.

CEO of FlowConnect, Colin Hoschke says “Our company is in a high growth phase and is enjoying great success with our specialist cloud-based Case Management solutions in niche markets. Phil’s high standing in the IT and Business Community, and extensive experience with providing IT services to Government will be of great benefit to us.

“He has a wealth of knowledge of the local ICT industry, and in particular is a leading authority on cloud-based services.

A former academic at UNSW, McCrea has had senior management roles in AAPT and CSIRO. He headed up Softway for 5 years, and spent more than 12 years as CEO of ac3.

He is a Fellow of the Australian Computer Society and Institute of Engineers Australia and is co-chairman of the NSW Pearcey Foundation.

“I’m delighted to become chair of FlowConnect”, McCrea said.

“I have been following the company with interest from some time. Information is being centralised more and more these days and FlowConnect is brilliantly placed to contextualise this consolidated information and using its workflow engine to provide complex case management.”
