

Cloud communications provider Access4 joins the rhipe vendor portfolio

APAC's leading distributor of cloud solutions and services, rhipe (ASX: RHP), has announced it has been appointed as an APAC distributor for communications and collaboration software provider, Access4.

With remote workforces requiring efficient collaboration tools and cloud technology, Access4 delivers unified communications and collaboration products, all underpinned via its self-serve automated platform SASBOSS, uniting cloud communications into a seamless experience for MSPs.

Dominic O'Hanlon, CEO of rhipe said, "With many organisations operating outside of the traditional office environment, businesses need the enterprise level cloud voice and collaboration tools delivered by Access4, helping them transform collaboration with virtual solutions that support dynamic work locations. We are pleased to welcome Access4 to the rhipe vendor portfolio."

Access4 delivers its cloud solutions through a trusted partner network. Partners experience seamless provisioning, automated invoicing and a flexible product suite backed by carrier grade services and industry leading integrations.

Tim Jackson, Managing Director of Access4 said, "rhipe helps extend Access4's offering with a proven history servicing MSPs in the APAC region. We are both committed to making MSPs successful and the integration of PRISM and SASBOSS will be a unique differentiator. The additional benefit of rhipe's full-service model with support and Professional Services available, widens the possibilities for Partners looking to scale up their capability."

"Back in 2015 when we started the business, we saw a number of roadblocks for MSP's wanting to enter the voice market. With SASBOSS and rhipe, these barriers are removed and voice and UC is a seamless offering that generates significant recurring revenues for their business."

Access4 joins other vendors that have recently joined the rhipe portfolio, including Runecast, Octopus Cloud and Nerdio.
