

Design High Impact Campaigns with Brand Representatives from Promo People

Businesses that need a brand ambassador at their next event will find marketing company Promo People has a large pool of qualified staff that can spread brand awareness to create a customer database, generate leads, and build relationships with potential customers. These brand representatives are outgoing, approachable, organised and detail-driven and are trained marketing professionals.

Promo People has been working alongside brands and agencies in Australia providing promotional and event staffing, event support as well as a range of brand activation services. Brand representatives are the ideal medium to communicate the message in a personal and timely manner while creating an emotional connection between the brand and the consumer.

Businesses that sell products will need representatives that are knowledgeable about them. Promo People has brand ambassadors that work in teams alternating at different places and events, ensuring they get the experience and become knowledgeable about the product, pricing, and benefits.

With their training these brand ambassadors are able to quickly learn what needs to be known about the product making them the perfect candidate if the product requires a demonstration or significant customer education for a sale.

These brand representatives are effective in generating word-of-mouth opportunities. To maximise opportunities it is essential that the potential audience learns quickly about the brand. In order to achieve exposure these brand representatives provide the perfect opportunities for face-to-face interaction.

To gain consumer confidence, these representatives can explain what the business does best, exhibit these product's features through a demonstration or sample, and effectively embody the brand's image.

Brand representatives from Promo People can manifest the businesses' values and image by wearing company uniforms and costumes. Brand ambassadors are perfect for product launches and for new marketing campaigns. They can generate new leads, distribute marketing materials, and interact directly with people in busy outdoor environments.

Approaching potential customers in high-traffic areas such as shopping malls or train stations can be intimidating. However, brand ambassadors from Promo People are highly experienced in working in busy outdoor environments, making them perfect for material distribution and lead generation.
