Today's article will further look at and discuss why e-cigarette devices explode and how best to avoid this from happening. There have been reports of devices exploding and people dying, but why are these devices exploding, let's take a detailed look.

The most important thing to remember is to make sure you are buying all your device bits and pieces from reputable sellers and that you are not purchasing aftermarket or non-recognised fake parts. This is one of the most common reasons why e-cigarette devices malfunction and do not work correctly thus causing harmful effects.

Other ways to prevent this type of malfunctions from occurring are;

- taking battery safety extremely seriously

- considering the correct use of atomisers

- using and changing coils

- research and only use appropriate products

- read and follow instruction manual

- charge and store batteries and devices properly
