

GIS People Expands Services to Victoria

GIS People is now part of the Victoria Government eServices Register, making it easier for customers in Victoria to utilise their geospatial services.

The Register is mandated for use by Victorian government departments and agencies. GIS People was chosen to be part of the panel on the strength of their industry expertise and ability to provide clients with end-to-end geospatial solutions. GIS People's four core business areas of geospatial consultancy, software development, remote sensing and geospatial training make this possible.

GIS People's Managing Director, Igor Stjepanovic, says "This is great news, especially coming hot on the heels of our acceptance onto the New South Wales ICT Services Scheme. GIS People is now in a fantastic position to provide first class services to clients not just in Queensland but in NSW and Victoria too."
