

Global Leader in Online Lottery, Lottoland Pushes for Responsible Gambling

Lottoland urges customers and lotto players to gamble responsibly. The company leader in online betting wants to promote a positive atmosphere within the lotto industry and make gambling more enjoyable as a recreational activity.

Through this effort of advocating responsible gambling, Lottoland promises to provide customers with a fair gambling experience in respect to the players' safety and wellbeing. The company has provided a number of tools to help players refrain from spending more than they can afford. These include providing deposit limits, and giving players the opportunities for self-exclusion.

Lottoland provides players with the ability to set deposit limits, which can be changed at any time. Players can set a daily, weekly, or monthly deposit limit, and can also request for Lottoland to lower their deposit limit, wherein the request will be implemented immediately. Players who request to increase their deposit limit will have to wait a 24-hour period before the company carries out the request.

Self-exclusion, on the other hand, is an option which involves players blocking themselves from accessing their accounts for certain periods of time. Lottoland also removes self-excluded players from their marketing databases.

The company also operates a strict policy prohibiting underage players, below 18 years old. The company advises adults who share computers with minors to install security freeware, or make use of the parental control filters.

For players who require additional assistance in dealing with problems related to gambling, the company recommends contacting the Gambling Therapy and Gamble Aware organisations.

To learn more, visit the Lottoland website at <https://www.lottoland.com/nz>

Contacts

Lottoland mailto: