

HSE Management Case Study - Mitchell Services

"We had a real need in our business for a one-stop solution for our HSE Management

Mitchell Services (ASX:MSV) is a leading provider of drilling services to the global exploration, mining and energy industries. The team prides themselves on their reputation for delivering safe, efficient and proactive drilling services. Based in Australia, Mitchell Services operates with over 100 rigs and >700 employees in a range of environments including remote sites, near mine, open pits, and underground work environments. This makes providing safe operations to their clients and employees both a challenge and a priority.

The following video demonstrates how myosh worked closely with the team at Mitchell to improve safety in their organisation by simplifying key processes and workflows, and providing a system that can be used in a variety of working environments both remote and offline. As a result, myosh is used at all levels in the organisation – from the Drill crews in the field all the way up to the CEO.
