

Illawarra Cosmetic Injection Clinic in Wollongong Reveals Best Price For HIFU, Ultraformer III and Ultrasound Treatments To Look Younger in Corrimal

Looking Younger Without Surgery: How Ultrasound Treatments Roll Back the Years

Although most people are worried about the idea of undergoing surgery to reverse the effects of ageing, non-surgical techniques, like HIFU (High Intensity Focused Ultrasound), have been a game-changer. It's not just hearsay or a 'leap of faith'.

The Ultraformer III, a device that delivers targeted ultrasound waves, has been approved by regulatory authorities around the world. It's safe; it's effective; and it's being used globally by plastic surgeons and cosmetic clinics to treat patients wanting results without surgery!

With over 1 Million treatments already performed worldwide, Ultraformer III has quickly become the World's Number 1 Ultrasound Lift, tightening and contouring system.

What the Ultraformer III Treatment Does When we're young, we keep looking that way because we are able to naturally produce enough fresh collagen to keep our skins looking smooth. As we age, however, we begin to lose the ability to regenerate collagen, and our skins show it. Fine lines and wrinkles begin to appear, and the skin begins to sag.

If we really want to turn back the clock the natural way, what we need is to revitalise our skin's ability to produce collagen. HIFU treatment does just that. Here's how.

The Ultraformer III delivers focused ultrasound waves to target problem areas. A qualified practitioner can adjust the device to target tissues at the depth that's required to get the results you want.

The ultrasound waves cause tissues to heat up triggering healing processes and have a direct tightening effect. The latter is the reason why some people say they see instant results after going for HIFU treatment. But the best is yet to come.

The deep-tissue effects of the Ultraformer III promote collagen production, allowing your skin to rejuvenate itself the natural way.

Say Goodbye to Sagging, Wrinkles and Fine Lines There's more to HIFU treatment than meets the eye. It will reduce sagging, fine lines, wrinkles and skin folds, but it can also be used to contour the body. And although many patients say they're happy with the immediate results, the passage of a few weeks will start to reveal the full effect of the treatment.

Within three weeks, they begin to notice the external improvements that come from collagen repairing itself, and this process continues for up to six months. The improvements are subtle, but before and after photographs reveal just what HIFU therapy can do.

Understanding the Treatment Process Finding out more about HIFU treatments proved to be less easy than we expected. It's still a relatively new innovation and, given the high cost of the specialised equipment therapists need to offer it, it's not something you'll find just anywhere, although there are many cheaper, unproven systems on the market. We asked Jacinda McKay & Shelley Stevens, co-owners of Platinum Face and Body Clinic in Illawarra what to expect.

"It's something you can have done in your lunch break," Jacinda says. "You don't need any downtime. If you're working with a qualified therapist, there's very little chance of unwanted side-effects."

"Those who do experience them find them mild – maybe the skin appears a little red for a few hours, or in rare cases, nerves are temporarily affected, causing numbness or muscle weakness in the treatment area. And yes, there's a tiny chance of bruising or minor burns," Shelley says. "But for most people, it's a walk-in, walk-out procedure with no real discomfort."

"Our clients are very happy with the results they get, and we're careful to manage expectations. It's not a surgical facelift. That's its primary benefit, but you also can't expect to see the same kind of results. That's why all our treatments begin with a consultation. We don't make promises we can't deliver on, but we do deliver noticeable results."
