

Local Sunshine Coast Businesswoman Delivers Only Healthy, Natural, and Environmentally-Conscious Products in New Gift Box Business

Partnering with other Australian-based small businesses to deliver healthy alternatives to online gift boxes

Queensland-based small business, The Wholesome Gift Box, is passionate about supporting other local businesses and leaving as small a carbon footprint on the world as possible.

Sarah Watts, The Wholesome Gift Box Owner and Founder says, "We make a commitment and conscious decision to deliver gift boxes that only contain local, healthy, and natural products which are also good for the environment. And we do this by partnering with other like-minded Australian businesses who are as equally passionate about supporting similar social justice movements as we are."

Sarah aims to work with brands who make a commitment to growing and harvesting produce in a way that reduces any negative impacts on the environment. She recognises that by committing to natural products, and by offering healthy gift boxes, The Wholesome Gift Box also empowers customers to be a part of a movement that has many environmental benefits.

Products are carefully paired to compliment each other, are wrapped in recycled materials, and cushioned in crinkle cut paper. All wrappings are free from plastic and tastefully decorated.

Available pre-designed gift boxes in the collection include:

- Thank you gift box - Home body gift box - Mother and baby gift box - Treat someone special gift box - Pamper time gift box - Just because gift box - Vegan-friendly gift box

Customised gift boxes are also available.

All gift boxes are delivered free of shipping charges.

About The Wholesome Gift Box Based on the Sunshine Coast, Queensland, The Wholesome Gift Box curates natural, healthy, and environmentally-friendly products from other like-minded Australian small businesses to deliver tasteful, beautiful, and wholesome gifts.
