

Macquarrie Now a Senquip Distributor

Two great Australian companies working together

Senquip is pleased to announce Macquarrie, Australia's leading integrator of control, monitoring & protection solutions for engines and machinery, as a Senquip distributor.

Macquarrie is a technology focused engineering business providing standard and custom-built, leading-edge solutions for diesel engines, diesel driven equipment, and off-highway machinery.

Senquip is an Australian manufacturer of rugged, programmable, sensor gateways that connect any industrial sensor or system to the Senquip Portal or a server of your choice.

Together, Macquarrie and Senquip bring an all Australian solution to remote monitoring and control of engines and machinery.

"We always look for partners who are highly specialised and are able to offer the best technical support. Macquarrie is the perfect partner for Senquip" said Norman Ballard, CEO of Senquip.

"The Senquip sensor gateways bring the reliability and flexibility required to enable Macquarrie to offer remote monitoring and control to all our customers" said Timara Talbot, General Manager of Macquarrie Corporation.
