

MediaPRO's Security Awareness and Privacy Training programs added to CAUDIT Cybersecurity Panel through Enosys Solutions

Providing higher education and research institutions with the tools needed to protect their employees and business-critical assets.

SYDNEY, Australia, Monday, 25 February 2019– MediaPro, recognised as a Leader in the 2018 Gartner Magic Quadrant for Security Awareness Computer-Based Training, announced today they have officially been appointed to the Council of Australasian University Directors of Information Technology (CAUDIT) Cybersecurity Panel in partnership with Enosys Solutions.

MediaPRO offers a complete learning solution with an industry-leading adaptive awareness framework that allows you to grow employee knowledge, change employee behaviour and build a risk-aware culture.

"Our team has made significant strides to ensure we are delivering a top-notch training experience that is effective, and able to fit into the culture and work flow of any company", MediaPro CEO Tyler Winkler said. "We believe that our position as a Leader in this year's Magic Quadrant is a recognition of our commitment to deliver dynamic training to businesses and organizations of any size."

"Enosys has been working with MediaPro for several years to deliver and enable our customers to easily manage their security awareness training and employee assessments with the most comprehensive and flexible solution available in the market" said George Soumilas, Director of Managed Services at Enosys Solutions.

"We also have long standing and deep relationships with many Australian higher education institutions. We are delighted to be appointed to the CAUDIT Cybersecurity Panel, allowing us to assist these institutions across Australasia to easily manage their security awareness training and employee assessments including specific content for Australia's Notifiable Data Breach laws," said Soumilas.

"Our partnership with both MediaPRO and Enosys has gone from strength to strength over the past few years and being appointed to the first ever Cybersecurity Panel for CAUDIT is a great example. It all comes down to MediaPRO's award-winning, interactive courseware to videos, posters, articles and hundreds of individual educational pieces of content that is the very best to help clients of all sizes and needs to tailor their awareness programs" said Jason Burn, COO for Cloud Distribution.

MediaPRO is distributed across the Asia Pacific region by Cloud Distribution, a value-added distributor driving new innovative cloud-based solutions into the market to help organisations reduce their total cost of ownership and receive a better return on their investment.
