

MTC Australia Achieves Certification to International Standards ISO 9001:2015 and 27001:2013

When it comes to achieving ISO 27001:2013 certification in particular, MTC is honoured to be one of the pioneer organisations in the social enterprise sector.

MTC Australia is pleased to announce that its Head Office has achieved certification to quality management standard ISO 9001:2015 and information security management standard ISO 27001:2013. The certification and audit process was conducted by BSI.

This is a significant milestone for MTC, providing a solid foundation and framework for developing and improving service delivery and information security management.

MTC's Head Office has now joined the Employment Services, Education and Training, Youth and Community, and MTC Recruitment divisions in certification to ISO 9001:2015.

Having these certifications provides assurance to both current and potential customers, as well as the government departments that MTC deals with, that its processes and systems have been designed and implemented to meet customer, statutory and regulatory requirements and are managing and controlling the risks associated with its service delivery.

"MTC Australia is now quality certified to ISO 9001 across the entire business; from the Head Office leadership and support services through to the operational divisions which directly service our clients and customers," said MTC Australia CEO Colin Lloyd. "Our organisation is very proud to be recognised for our continuous improvements to our processes.

"At MTC, we aim to cultivate a high-performance culture and a commitment to quality in everything we do."

When it comes to achieving ISO 27001:2013 certification in particular, MTC is honoured to be one of the pioneer organisations in the social enterprise sector.

"We regard the achievement of ISO 27001 certification as a significant milestone for MTC Australia, which provides a solid foundation and framework for developing and improving our information security to meet all our stakeholders' expectations," said Mr. Lloyd.

Chris Meehan, General Manager – Operations and Training at BSI Group Australia said, "In an increasingly competitive business environment, organisations who want to get ahead need to stand out from the crowd. Achieving certification to both these revised standards is a credit to everyone at MTC Australia and clearly demonstrates their commitment to being a sustainable organisation that places customer satisfaction at the heart of their business."
