A track record of success As one of the biggest names in the industry, Learn to Trade has a track record of success that stretches all the way back to its humble beginnings in London in 2003. Since then, more than 250,000 people have been through the company's introductory forex trading course on a worldwide basis, with the number growing quickly.

Unlike other trader education companies, Learn to Trade has chosen to focus on teaching ordinary people with no prior experience from finance how to generate profits from the forex market. Among the people who have graduated successfully from the program are teachers, nurses, and even retirees.

According to the company, many new traders first learn about the forex market from various sources online. However, they often struggle to make sense of everything they have learned, including figuring out how to apply the theory to a live trading environment. In this sense, Learn to Trade is unique in that it gives its students the chance to trade in a live trading environment with proper supervision, while also learning to carefully manage risks.

Today, Learn to Trade has offices in the UK, South Africa, the Philippines, and Australia, with Australia being one of the company's key growth areas. Learn to Trade was originally founded in London by the legendary British forex trader Greg Secker, before the concept was later brought to Sydney, Australia. Since then, Mr. Secker has made numerous public appearances in Australia, with the latest one being the Success Resources event in Sydney in late 2019.
