

Paul Timms named Automic Group Chief Customer Officer; Leaves BoardRoom

July 7, 2020 - Automic Group has appointed Paul Timms to be its new Chief Customer Officer. He leaves BoardRoom Australia, where he served as Chief Customer Officer since 2018. This is a newly created role for the rapidly growing Automic Group, now the third largest share registry provider in Australia.

Automic Group Managing Director Paul Williams said Mr Timms will be an invaluable addition to the senior leadership team.

"We are delighted that Paul will be joining the Automic team during an important time in our company's history, as we seek to become the number one registry provider in Australia," Williams said.

"With over 20 years' experience in the software and services market and 14 years spent at Boardroom Limited; His expertise will enhance the Automic offering. Paul is also a Certified Blockchain Expert which fits with our long-term technology investment and strategy.

"Paul's role will see him develop strategies, drive innovation, invest in the capability of our people and build on our customer-centric culture to ensure we continue delivering the superior service our clients have come to expect.

"Our people are our greatest asset and we believe Paul will be instrumental in helping us continue our exciting growth," he said.
