

Revitalife CEO Named in Top 50 Healthcare Technology Report 2021

The Healthcare Technology Report has announced the Top 50 Healthcare Technology CEOs of 2021 and Revitalife is pleased to share their own CEO, Clive van Deventer, has been listed.

This year's awardees represent some of the most accomplished executives in healthcare technology and Clive is honoured to be named. Revitalife Company owner, Lance Clews, says "When it comes to driving success in business, there is no better way to do that than by bringing in the right people for the job. And that's why we appointed Clive as CEO in 2018." says Lance. "Clive has been instrumental in taking our business to the next level by driving innovation whilst ensuring our customer-centric care culture remained a priority. He has achieved this by surrounding himself with a quality management team and implementing better business practices. Clive also led the company through the COVID-19 pandemic with his intuitive thinking and team collaboration."

The Healthcare Technology Report share in its media release published this week, "This year's awardees represent some of the most accomplished executives in healthcare technology. Their leadership has been critical in developing industry-leading medical devices, next-generation software platforms, cutting-edge drugs and therapeutics, and advanced diagnostics, among other technologies.

From inventing novel orthopedic and mobility devices to spearheading platforms to strengthen the patient/provider connection, and to developing new blood tests to diagnose diseases, these awardees have made significant contributions to society at large. They come from varied backgrounds in medicine, research, biotechnology, business, and finance, leveraging unique insights to provide their companies with the agility and ingenuity needed to thrive. While highly involved and instrumental to the continued success of their companies, they have also remained dedicated to advancing their particular fields, with many participating in prestigious research institutions and trade groups that are collaborating to develop more effective solutions for patients across the globe."

Appointed CEO of Revitalife Sleep Solutions in late 2018, Clive's team describe him as a visionary and an approachable customer-centric leader with an open-door policy who genuinely cares. Clive has introduced product innovation and strategic partnerships including the announcement of an exclusive collaboration with Celliant Technology in the adjustable bed market in Australia in 2019, along with Sleep Disorders Australia in 2021. Through these and other collaborations he continues to work on ways to bring a better night's sleep to every Australian.

We would like to congratulate all CEO's named. For the full list visit here.

Revitalife is an Australian family-owned and operated class 1 medical devices company specialising in innovative therapeutic products for everyone, from elite athletes to senior Australians. As a registered National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) provider Revitalife works closely with leading health and medical professionals, with the mission to help more Australians suffer less, enjoy faster recovery and attain restful sleep.

Revitalife offers one-on-one personalised consultations, both in-home and online, to work with customers in building a sleep solution that works best for their unique needs and requirements.

Contacts

Apivut Chakuthip

0420931648

mailto: apivut.chakuthip@revitalife.com.au