

Software Company AlayaCare and Aged Care Service Provider Envigor Partner to Help Solve the problem of how to manage information in a Consumer Directed framework.

Aged Care Providers in Australia can now take advantage of revolutionary software which enables a complete end-to-end client information management solution, with leading edge mobile technologies that empowers clients & families in a Consumer Directed BRISBANE, AUSTRALIA and TORONTO, CANADA (January 11th, 2017) – AlayaCare, home healthcare’s first outcome focused software platform, announced today their partnership with Envigor Private Home Care, a leading home based health and support services agency in Brisbane, Australia. The partnership reflects two entrepreneurial organizations that are capitalizing on the critical need to bring leading edge software to home care providers.

Legislative changes and reforms by the Australian Department of Health have created a service environment that will provide consumers and families greater choice, control and flexibility in services delivered in their home. As a result, providers will rethink the process used to manage consumer information. This is particular to where information can be utilized to inform service provision and facilitate regulatory compliance. Envigor, is uniquely positioned to contribute to the required product adaptations to give providers (and therefore consumers and their families) access to the systems that will achieve this goal. Furthermore, their knowledge and perspective on client centric experiences is invaluable to the product.

CEO of AlayaCare, Adrian Schauer states, “We’re very keen to enter this market and believe we can dramatically improve operations for aged care providers while achieving better health outcomes.” Schauer adds, “We’re thrilled about our partnership with Envigor and their enthusiasm to help us bring a modernized, consumer-focused platform to Australia.”

Envigor boasts a team of trusted professionals, including some of Australia’s most experienced and innovative leaders in the field of Aged Care who work to ensure Envigor delivers daily on the group’s promise of an unprecedented level of home care.

CEO of Envigor, Nick Loudon states, “We have been looking for some time for a product that allows us to better manage the information we collect and we are very excited to be partnering with a software company that is as committed to improving the health outcomes of consumers as we are. Outstanding customer service is central to the way we work with our clients at Envigor. The introduction of AlayaCare to the Australian market means that the relationship we have with our clients will move to a new level of accountability and transparency.”
