

StarNow's New Design Looks Good from Every Angle

Size matters... especially when it comes to screen size!

That's why global castings website StarNow (www.starnow.com) has relaunched with a responsive design that automatically adjusts to fit any screen. No more pinching, zooming or squinting; it's now a breeze to apply to castings no matter where you are.

"A one-size-fits-all website just doesn't cut it these days," says StarNow CEO Cameron Mehlhopt.

"We're constantly moving from our desktop computers to our laptops, tablets, and smartphones (not forgetting phablets), so it's crucial for StarNow to look great at all times."

"You need a flexible design that works for everyone, and on any device. That's why we've revamped StarNow and we're really excited about its new look."

The site has been given a few other little nips and tucks, including a smart new sidebar that allows members to easily move around the site while focusing on castings and a brand new uncluttered talent directory that lets the talent take centre stage.
