

Steel-Line Introduces Powermesh Garage Door Controller

Australia's most innovative and largest garage door manufacturer, Steel-Line Garage Doors, has teamed up with Zimi, to create the latest innovation in garage door technology. The Steel-Line Powermesh Garage Door Controller, allowing you to use your garage door in new ways never before possible.

The Powermesh Garage Door Controller is the newest addition to Zimi's simple and affordable home automation solution with a complete suite of products to control your lighting, appliances, fans and now your garage door.

With an easy set up on any existing door or motor with a bell press, the Powermesh Garage Door Controller boasts features that make it so simple to use, monitor and share... it really is technology like no other.

Open or close your door with hands-free convenience with the Google Assistant and with the Zimi app and Cloud Connect you can control this from anywhere in the world.

What's better is you'll have increased safety and security, thanks to flight path technology – the intelligent sensor that's spatially aware of your door's every position, allowing you to open your door to different heights. "Hey Google, open my door to 40%" – perfect for ventilation, pet access or receiving deliveries whilst you are away.

The Powermesh Garage Door Controller can control one or two doors in your home, works with all existing motors with a bell-press and is an affordable introduction to home automation with the option to further build more automation in your home as and when you require.

Aaron Dillaway, Chief Executive Officer at Steel-Line, is delighted to further expand the companies offering.

"The Powermesh Garage Door Controller builds on Steel-Line's commitment to leveraging technology to provide convenience and peace of mind for our customers. This new product received the 2020 Good Design Award in the Product Design Hardware and Building category in recognition for outstanding design and innovation, and we are proud to launch it to market with our partners at Zimi."

Steel-Line Garage Doors have been designing and custom making garage doors for Australians for over 40 years. With branches throughout Australia and chosen by the majority of Australia's leading residential builders, it's little wonder why they continue to lead the field in technological advances and now give you the choice to control your door through touch, tap or talk.
