

Succession - Family Businesses Biggest Problem

FINH

Family Business Experts Release E-book

According to Ernst and Young recent research, family business make up approximately two-thirds of all companies around the world.

Transitioning those family businesses through the generations is the most important issue those family business and all of their stakeholders face. Without a formalised, effective plan 97% of family businesses fail to make it beyond the 3rd generation.

Australian family business expert, David Harland, Managing Director of FINH has recently released an E-book on "Simple Steps For Family Business Succession".

Via articles, statistics, infographic and short videos this E-book provides the large family business community with tips and the ability to identify barriers to family business succession. It provides a vital pathway to creating long-terms sustainability of family owned and operated businesses.

David Harland is available for comment on 61 7 3229 7333

Contacts

Kim Harland
0402 247 946
mailto: kharland@finh.com