Sanjay Sethi moved to Australia in 1989 and worked odd jobs for almost six months. Later he got into driving taxis. In the next 15 years, Sanjay ended up building a fleet of over 165 Taxis at its peak with over 400 drivers working part/full time. In fact, Sanjay got the idea of launching a mechanic shop while he was in the taxi business. He realised that with 165 taxis, they did not have any breakdowns in 450000 shifts, which gave him the confidence to start a mechanic shop. He founded Kismet Mechanical in 2012 to help the general public with vehicle maintenance and repair.
