

Synchrony Global to Exhibit at 2017 AHRI National Convention

Company will provide attendees an opportunity to experience best practice cloud software

SYDNEY – Synchrony Global announced this week that it will exhibit at the 2017 Australian HR Institute National Convention and Exhibition, being held from August 21-24 in Sydney. This is the first time Synchrony will exhibit at the convention.

“Our ANZ team are HR industry experts, and many of us have been long term AHRI members,” said Scott Davidson, Synchrony Global VP of Services and Managing Director of ANZ. “It’s exciting that we’re now able to attend as an Exhibitor to connect with our customers and showcase our industry leading Cloud technology to our peers.”

AHRI’s National Convention and Exhibition is Australia’s flagship event for HR and people managers. This annual event is expected to be attended over 3,000 HR practitioners, people managers and business leaders, and will showcase national and global thinking for business today.

Synchrony Global will feature a highly interactive exhibit, giving attendees the opportunity to use the company’s digital tools and experience “best practice” cloud software.

“AHRI is a great forum to discover the latest in HR and HR technology and get thought leadership from industry leaders,” said Synchrony Global CCO Mike Ellis. “Hands on experience is also crucial for HR leaders to understand how they can rapidly optimise and better manage their employee lifecycle to drive performance, adoption and engagement.”

Synchrony Global is showcasing its software solutions SyncExpressHR and SyncPay, both of which are powered by SAP SuccessFactors and WalkMe. Stop by booth 146 for a hands-on experience of the software solutions.
