Born on the east coast shores of Australia in 2019 by Founders Katie Eales and David Tingle, Sabbia Co is a luxury, sustainable skincare company making waves in the world of wellness, health and beauty.

On a mission to turn customers' skin and beauty routines into rituals, Sabbia Co offers Australian-made reusable skin health and wellness products to eliminate single-use consumerism. Not only simplifying the beauty routine and transforming skin, the Brand also educates their customers and followers on the impacts and benefits of their choices, allowing them to make informed decisions on what is best for their skin, their health and our planet.

Inspired by her own personal journey with skin health and wellness, Founder, Katie recalls: "I have been playing around with natural skincare and beauty products since my late teens, making masks and scrubs out of things we had in the pantry."

"The idea for Sabbia Co all really started following a trip Dave and I took to Sri Lanka in 2018. Already living a low-waste lifestyle ourselves, we were devastated by the amount of single-use items (makeup wipes included) littered across the beaches. We came home with a goal to make a change. Tossing around a few ideas, we landed on sustainable face kits and products that would change the skincare game."

More than 20 million makeup wipes are thrown away every single day, making them the third most wasteful product in the world! The majority of these wipes contain harmful chemicals and plastics which are not only bad for your skin, but the environment too.

Enter Sabbia Co's reusable makeup pads - the first product the Brand took to market. A unique blend of fibres that are super soft, gentle and effective (just add water!), these pads last for over 200 machine washes and replace up to 1,000 single-use wipes. To date, Sabbia Co has saved more than 13 million single-use wipes from going into landfill. Oh, and they offer an up-cycling program for all used pads so the products never end up in landfill.

Following the huge success of their eco-friendly and chemical-free tools, the Brand went on to release a lineup of innovative, sustainable products including a Botanical Glow Cleanser, Collagen C Serum, Charcoal and Matcha Masks, Cleansing Bars, Gua Sha and more on the way this year (stay tuned for a range of beauty and makeup products).

Formulated by Katie herself and then made entirely in Australia (at labs in Newcastle, Burleigh Heads and the Gold Coast) Sabbia Co utilises minimal but powerful natural extracts and ingredients to create a line-up that doesn't sacrifice on quality, resulting in better skin and a better planet too.

Harnessing key ingredients such as Finger Lime, Seaweed Collagen, Davidson Plum, White Willow Bark, Kakuda Plum and Calendula, Sabbia Co has effectively cleared stubborn acne, eczema and dermatitis for hundreds of Australian men and women.

"We are geared towards the movement of skinimalism (skin minimalism), simplifying the process, the products and the environmental impact of a skincare routine. Less really is more!", says Katie.

David continues: "We're doing what we love, making a positive impact on the environment and also making a difference in the lives (and faces) of our customers. We are warmed and motivated by the amazing reviews, comments and messages we receive from our customers showing us how much their skin has healed and improved since using products."

Turn your beauty routine into a ritual with sustainable skin tools that are guaranteed to make your skin glow.

About Sabbia Co

Sabbia Co was born after Burleigh Heads Founders Katie and Dave found themselves on a remote beach in Sri Lanka and devastated over the amount of single-use personal items they were surrounded by.

Katie has a huge passion for skin health and well-being, while Dave is a surfer dude and green-thumb. They both do their bit in their home to reduce their footprint, but wanted to do more. And that's why they launched Sabbia Co in September 2019.

An ethical brand with minimal impact on the environment, that creates unique facial kits out of sustainable, biodegradable, reusable and chemical free tools. These kits cleanse, exfoliate and remove makeup with just WATER!
