

Vehicle Move Plans to Shake Up the Automotive Transport Market

Increasing car transport competition

Vehicle Move, a leading provider in ecommerce has just introduced plans to release a version of the system that will shake up the Australian vehicle transport industry. Company representative Ben Smith has advised that the transportation industry has long required an overhaul and consumers need a better system to manage and obtain competitive pricing when it comes to transportation of our second most valuable asset, the motor vehicle.

With a high end development that required over 2 years in the making, Vehicle Move is set to introduce to car boat and motorbike transport providers and offer a comprehensive membership to trial the system for free. This will allow a select number of transporters to trial the system, obtain live interstate vehicle transport leads whilst providing invaluable feedback to the development company.

About the Vehicle Transport Company: The company provides consumers with competitive transportation quotes from a comprehensive list of professional car carrying companies Australia wide. Acting as a facilitator and gathering quotes in real time for the customer, making it the most recommended and simple system to connect with car carriers to meet customer requirements.
