The festive season is definitely all fun for your pet. But you can add in more to that. Holiday season is about offering extra love to your pet on their plate through various treats. VetSupply stocks a wide range of pet dietary supplements and treats from the popular brands available at exceptional prices. Indeed a good combination of taste and health.

As always, customers look forward to shopping at the stores on Black Friday. However, along with the fun of festivity all around, the ongoing threat of flea and tick season cannot be overlooked. Parasites can be a major reason to flop the fun for your pet by infesting them. Well, to prevent and treat fleas and ticks, VetSupply offers a myriad of flea and tick preventives and treatments at discounted rates. The online store has exciting BOGO (Buy One Get One) offers on broad-range of flea and tick treatments this Black Friday. VetSupply SUPER DEALS is giving you a great chance to store in preventatives to save big and smartly protect the pets from parasites.

This Black Friday, VetSupply is also offering super deals on dog dewormers to protect your furry friend. The super sale on dewormers includes a comprehensive range of treatments for gastrointestinal worms and preventives for heartworms with special discounts throughout the day. So, shoppers can now start saving big with Black Friday deals and get the seamless experience of shopping. Pet parents no more have to worry about the extra shipping charges as the leading online store believes to make the shopping fest more about savings than spending. Therefore, customers can order any product and can enjoy the privilege of FREE SHIPPING.

There are a number of deals and deep discounts on the various items across the e-store including flea and tick treatments, wormers, treats, toys, joint care, wound care, accessories, pet food and a lot more for customers. In addition to these deals, the online store has some exciting combos which are a bonanza offer and can double the protection for your pets.
