

What's the secret to keeping your glass pool fencing looking like new this Summer?

When constructing a beautiful new pool, or renovating an existing one, here's the secret to keeping your glass looking like new...

The secret is out. Maintaining the stunning appearance of this feature pool fencing is easy with EnduroShield protective glass treatment.

The glass pool fencing used around this stunning pool, in Sydney's Whale Beach, has been treated with EnduroShield. The treated glass fencing around the pool and on the double-tiered verandas allows for beautiful uninterrupted views.

EnduroShield creates a protective barrier that stops contaminants soaking into the glass. Instead, water and contaminants bead up on the protected surface and are easily wiped off with a damp microfibre cloth and a mild detergent. EnduroShield keeps glass cleaner for longer in between cleans, and significantly reduces upkeep. Saving you time and money on cleaning and maintenance.

Untreated glass surfaces are porous and absorb contaminants leading to the deterioration of the glass, resulting in the glass becoming etched and discoloured. Untreated glass near beaches is particularly susceptible to salt spray, which quickly leads to salt build up on glass, making the glass hazy. Pool chemicals, chlorine and general air pollutants can also discolour glass. This can make outdoor glass costly to clean and maintain, and can even lead to glass needing to be replaced.

EnduroShield can be applied to new or existing glass surfaces. If you're building a new home or pool, you can buy glass pool fencing pre-treated with EnduroShield from many glass and building suppliers.

EnduroShield can also be applied onsite to existing glass – simply call the EnduroShield Professional Applicator team, and they will apply it for you. Or for smaller glass areas, you can use our EnduroShield for glass DIY kit.

Protect your glass with EnduroShield and relax, unwind and enjoy more time with your family and friends around the pool.
